BORDEN'S MALTED MILK

FEW THINGS are more satisfying for sick or well than Borden's Malted Milk.

IT IS refreshing.

IT IS easily invigorating.

IT IS extremely palatable.

AND IT can be assimilated when other foods can not be taken into the stomach.

MANY PEOPLE are now serving it regularly on the table, instead of tea and coffee.

MANY OTHERS are serving it for at least one meal a day.

BORDEN'S is not too sweet, but is enjoyed by those who do not like over-sweetened things.

I AM THE RED CROSS

I, AM the Red Cross. I was born of the hearts of men. I am sustained by thirty million souls. My mission is of mercy, kindness, and charity. I am my brother's keeper. I know neither color, race, nor religion. My creed is the creed of service. My goal is the goal of a higher humanity. My record is the gratitude of the widow and the orphan, of the strong and the sick, of the happy and the bereaved.

I go forth into the darkness of the night, into the uncertainties of the day. I defy the peril of shell and bullet. I lighten the horrors of the battle. I encourage and inspire the soldier. I give him a thousand comforts. I minister to those he has left at home. I claim the the wounded from the battle field. I bind their wouuds and ease their sufferings. I mark the grave of the dead.

I go into hospital and home and hovel
I scorn contagion. I am the guardian of lnfant life, the apos- tle of health and cleanliness, and the conserver of old age.
I visit the sick. I help the lame. I cheer the sorrowful. I lead the blind into paths of light. I teach the crip- pled new ways of life.

I am the foe of plagues and pestilences. I mitigate the horrors of floods and fires and wrecks.
I am the arch-enemy of calamities. I triumph over poverty, want, and woe. I house the homeless, feed the hun- gry, and clothe the naked. I protect the wid- ow and the orphan.
I am the friend and helper of all nations.

My hand and heart encompass the globe. My legionaries I send to the uttermost parts of the earth—across the threatened ocean, through war-swept territories, over infested lands. My sympathy and succor are boundless. My purse is great enough for all. A dozen nations return me homage, a dozen potentates pay me tribute. The races of the earth support me with their prayers. My emblem is the cross, symbol of supreme charity and of the Saviour of men. Behind me march thirty million soldiers, with hearts for any fate. I challenge and triumph over death. My strength and struggles are for the living, my prayers and compassion for the dead.

I am the saviour of life, the assuager of death. I am my brother's keeper.

I am the Red Cross!

Mr. and Mrs. Walter A. Merrill and family accompanied by his brother, E. C. Merrill arrived in Campbell on Saturday evening in good time for supper, coming by automobile from Los augeles where they have been resting and seeing the country.

They came from Los Angeles to Santa-Barbara the first day, traveling 105 miles. The second day they reached San-Luis Opispo, 115 miles, and the third day being the home stretch, they traveled 195 miles. They thoroughly enJoyed every inch of their trip both going down and returning, as the scenery was new both ways, and the roads were good.

Fred W. Jacobs of the Californin Canneries Co., San Francisco, was a recent Campbell visitor, going over the coming years business with P. B. Payne, local manager.

Floyd A. Bohnett returned Sunday from his trip east, He reports a very pleasant time sight seeing in many of the large cities, and visiting with relatives in Michigan. He has resumed the management of the Orange Grove Farm but does not intend to re-engage in the dairy business for the present at least.

Howard Bean spent his holiday vacation with an uncle's family at Franklin Massachuretts, where he officiated as groomsman at the wedding of a friend.

Miss Cladys Bean, who was at home for several weeks, recovering from pneumonia, following influenza, was able to return to her duties at Mare Island with the begining of the year.

Mr. and Mrs. James J. Donohue, who have been spending the holiday seasou with Mrs. Duncan's parents, Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Duncan, have gone to their future home in Tuolumne county where Mr. Donohue is developing a gold mine.

Answer the Red Cross Roll Call

The called meeting of the Woman's Mobilized Army held in San jose Tuesday afternoon was well attended.

Honorable Charles O'Brien and E. N. Richmond, chairmen of the Red Cross Membership Drive Committee, and Mrs. Elmer Chase of San Jose were present and made stirring addresses, urging the necessity of continuing the work of mercy of the Red Cross and the Mobilized Army. Mr. O'Brien said, "We have no right to call ourselves Americans unless we are supporting the Red Cross to the extent of at least one membership, and what we want to impress upon everyone is that Five Dollars will save a life" Mrs. Chase gave final instructions to the women of the Mobilized Army and expressed confidence that they would be able to complete their work within the forty-eight hours.

Dr. Frederick Vining Fisher, who has for a long time been deeply interested in the Armenian—Syrian Relief, addressed the meeting in order that the workers might better understand the cause in which they are to labor in the Campaign beginning January 12 and continuing until the 19th, during which time people of the county will be expected to more than meet the quota of $20,000 The Campaign will be conducted jointly with the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call, and they will set as their goal 100 per cent membership for the county.

Dr. Fisher said that Armenia and Syria were looking to the United States as the "Open Door." He told a touching little story from his own experience in Armenia. As he went home one night, sick and exhausted from the heart -rending work of the day, he found a starving fifteen-year-old boy lying at his gate. The boy asked for bread and Dr. Fisher told him of a place only a little distance away where he could get bread,—then went in and shut the gate. Upon coming out the next morning he found the boy lying at his gate dead.

"I am the voice of 4,000,000 people waiting for you to save their lives," declared Dr. Fisher upon opening his address. He told of the scope of relief work which must be accomplished, stating that the territory covered in the Near East extends from the Russian border to the Himalayas.

Three million Armenians and Syrians gave up their lives because they believed in Christ Jesus and because they believed in the United States. Four million still remain and are unshaken in their faith. Will you as American citizens keep the faith with these people and give them life?"

In closing, Dr. Fisher stated that there remained about 4,000,000 refugees to be cared for, of which about 400,000 are babies and about 3,200,000 women. "The west front was a minor thing compared to the east front. These people died because they believed in God and because they stood by the United States. They believe in the Stars and Stripes, and they look to America to save them. I know you will bring your quota up to at least $80,000. We do not want to become allies of the Turks in the murder of these remaining people."

What Food-Saving Is and Isn't

The United States Food Administration is urging consumers to "still maintain the spirit of rigid economy in the use of foods." There are people who would like to know just what is meant by that injunction. Also, as said "rigid economy" may hurt the business of your grocer, he is interested, too. Hence this homily.

The exercise of eating, we take it, is followed from two different motives. First, we eat because we are hungry; second, we eat for the fun of the thing.

In regard to motive number one: even the Food Administration cannot find fault with that. So let us pass on to motive number two.

Motive number two.—Under the head of eating for pleasure might be mentioned the consumption of peanuts and cornucopias at odd hours. This pastime is chiefly indulged in by individuals who "seldom eat at meal times for fear of spoiling the appetite for the rest of the day." We consider this habit wasteful and unpatriotic, particularly as "Blaine's" sells none of the items mentioned.

Under the head of eating for amusement might also be included the serving of course dinners, where food is tasted but not consumed; the main object being to compare knowledge in the uses of various sorts of knives, forks, and spoons. This form of sport is expensive, and rarely pursued in our Orchard City.

To sum it all up: We conclude that the Food Administration is willing that the people of Campbell should eat all the wholesome food they need, when purchased at a first class store, which is where we shine.

FOR BETTER ROADS

HEAVY STRAIN ON HIGHWAYS

Roads That Stand Traffic in Normal Times Now Called Upon to Withstand Motortrucks.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Apparently the point has been reached where the demands of traffic have exceeded the strength of the average road to meet them. Highways designed to withstand the pounding of ordinary loads, that have stood up under imposts they were intended to sustain, no longer appear to be adequate to meet the present-day conditions. Congestion on our railways, possibly more acute in some sections than in others, has put upon our roads a transportation burden never expected and consequently not provided for by the engineers who designed the highway systems of the states. Roads have been designed with the same care as given to other structures and with the same regard for the purposes for which they were constructed and the burdens they were called upon to bear. Widespread failure is demonstrative of the fact that roads cannot carry unlimited loading. Their capacity is limited. If it is exceeded habitually and constantly, then they cannot survive.

The products of our farms and of our factories must be moved. The wants of our urban dwellers must be met. But the needs of our country involved in this great conflict are paramount to the needs of single communities, and thus when avalanches of freight destined to fill the greater necessity made imperative the partial closing of our vast system of rail transportation to the smaller, the relief appeared to be in the motortruck and the highway. Single light units expanded into great fleets, then grew into heavier units that, in turn, developed into long trains. From horse-drawn vehicles with concentrated loads of probably three tons at most, traveling at the rate of four miles an hour, sprung almost overnight the heavy motortruck with a concentrated load of from eight to 12 tons, thundering along at a speed of 20 miles an hour. The result? The worn and broken threads that bind our communities together. The solution? That is the problem that confronts the men who will be called upon to meet the ever-growing demands upon our highways and to devise regulations fair to those who pay for their construction and to those who pay for their use.

HAVE ROADS IN GOOD ORDER

Those Needing Surfacing Will Soon Pay for Themselves in Improved Marketing Conditions.

It costs something to put roads in order, to surface those that need surfacing, but they will pay for themselves in increased land values and improved marketing conditions. The bad road's cost is never settled. It is like a shoddy piece of goods bought at a high price on installments and worn out before it is paid for, only to be replaced by another of the same sort on the same plan of payment. On a deal of this kind we never catch up with our losses.

SURFACE ALONE APPRECIATED

Public Rarely Notices Drainage and Hidden Features That Tend to Conserve Roads.

The public appreciates only repairs to the surface and rarely notices the drainage and hidden features that conserve a road. One heavy load of lumber hauled in wet weather will undo the work of weeks of faithful work on the part of the repair man.

Plan for Dragging Roads.

It is an easy matter to have an agreement so each farmer will drag the road in front of his farm. This would maintain the road till the regular hands could be called out at stated intervals or till the commissioner could make the necessary repairs.

OCEAN LIFE FOR FOLKS ON SHORE

Interesting Phase of "Back-to-the-Sea" Movement of National Proportions.

TO CAN SIGHTS AND SOUNDS

Phonograph Records of Sailors' Songs and Chanteys—Moving Pictures Showing the Daily Life of the Sailor.

In earlier times the yarn of the sailor home from sea was the medium through which many shore-going folks visualized life on the ocean blue. It was far more graphic than a written narrative. In consequence Jack was always a hero when he told the story of his voyages.

Today, while the sailor's story still has its charm, it has powerful modern rivals in its appeal to the minds and hearts of the landsmen back home.

Nowadays it is not necessary for sweethearts or wife to wait for Jack's return to learn how his voyage is going. The unseen waves of the radio bring news of the distant ship from the sea in the twinkling of an eye. Officials authorized to receive such messages in wartime know from day to day just where the ships they are interested in are steaming, and how they fare.

Under war conditions the public, perforce, has lacked such information, but a more general diffusion of marine news has come with the lifting of the censor's ban on publication of ship movements.

In these times in fact landlubbers may see "counterfeit presentments" of sea sights and hear sea sounds, very near the real thing, without going far from their own firesides, or if they may not do so today, the time is not far off when they will, for a concerted effort is being made to bring home to the people all that may be "canned" of the movement incident to sailors' life.

In this educational effort—for it is such, purely, undertaken from various angles by various people, but under authority of the United States shipping board, official sponsor for the merchant marine—some novel effects are being worked out, and no detail is being omitted which would add to the value of the finished product.

For example, in due time it may be expected that sailors' songs and sailors' "chanteys"—as sung in forecastles and at tasks on deck when Jack the merchant mariner was a personage afloat and ashore, as he is getting to be again—will be reproduced in the records of the family phonograph.

"Chanteys" for the Music Machine.

Chantey singing is being revived in the merchant marine, at least on the training ships which are preparing Young America, at the rate of 4,000 lads a month, for service on our vast new commerce fleets, and under the new order of things it will be possible for Bangor, Me., and Mesa, Ariz., to hear in the same hour the actual notes and phrases of such famous chanteys as "Shenandoah," "Bound for the Rio Grande" and "Blow the Man Down," for the record may have them hard and fast before spring flowers bloom again.

Even the nautically classic songs of Charles Dibdin, the song-writer par excellence of the sailor, may not be counted too old, in spite of their 150 years, to find a place beside Caruso, and Galli Curci in the family cabinet of records.

Quite in keeping with the times, in fact, will be the rolling chorus of that noble sentiment to "The Lass Who Loved a Sailor!"

But the standing toast that pleased us most
Was "The wind that blows and the ship that goes,
And the lass that loves a sailor."

Furthermore, if this suggestion of salt is not enough, the landsman whose nearest approach to visualizing the rolling of the sea has been contemplation of a Western wheat field or the rolling prairie billowing under summer sun, may look upon actual movements of Jack, the merchant mariner, at work and play by going no nearer the sea than his own favorite "movie" theater.

Films are now made of these subjects quite as freely as of the wild-riding broncho buster, or the high-salaried bad man of the hills working assiduously "on location" to secure his desired effects. The only difference is this—these effects are not staged, but real.

The resulting films are of various sorts. One recently completed showed the work of the sailor on sailing ships, such as our grandfathers made their coin and reputation in, while building up a national merchant marine. This type of ship has had a recrudescence, or, as the camera man might say, a strong come-back, as a result of the war.

Some of the more venerable square-riggers have proven a find for the movie people, for they have provided genuine "atmosphere" for sure-selling picture stories of genuine sea life.

Daily Life of Sailors Shown.

Setting and reefing topsails and trimming sheets and even the less exciting work of "catting" the anchor, or serving rigging with chafing gear, that Bill Barnacle knew nothing about, but which is tolerably familiar to the young American of today whose thoughts stray toward the sea.

This chapter has to do with present-day methods of training "green hands" on board government training ships, to take their first steps as merchant sailors—methods born of the war, and the country's need of large numbers of young American sailors to man its commerce fleets.

In short, this chapter is the one for which the others serve as a lure—for it contains the real message that is being "put across" in behalf of modern seagoing.

This message is intended for the home folks in a thousand towns that have sent young men to the sea coast for service in this new and strange merchant marine, which has come upon the screen of national events as if by some process of magic. Mother may see her boy, or the like of him, in his blue sailor's uniform of the merchant marine, apprentice on board the big training ship, in all the movements of his work and play. Having seen him, she may feel the sea is not so far off, nor so cruelly rough, as she has thought. If she feels this, the psychology of the new era of carrying the atmosphere of sea life inland will be held by its interpreters to have become good material for the camera.

From such pictures as these on a sailing ship for a first reel, the scenario of a recently filmed story on the merchant sailor's life passed on, as the story tellers say, to the next phase, the work of a steamer's crew.

The picturesque sails here were replaced by the steam which took the place of the old-time capstan, with its walk-around movement at the capstan-bars, and its chance for a chantey.

But there is plenty of life and movement aboard a modern cargo carrier of the merchant marine; and even holystoning the deck has interest to the camera man, as a bit of first-hand evidence that he is getting the real thing.

As an epilogue to these graphic chapters on sea life, the cinema operator throws on the screen a reel that would make old Bill Barnacle of the Black Ball packets scratch his poll, could he see it.

It presents a chapter of sea life

FILMS TO TEACH BETTER FARMING

United States Department of Agriculture Plans Campaign for Winter.

TO USE ONE REEL A WEEK

Will Represent All Parts of the Country and Will Include Great Variety of Subjects—To Stimulate Production.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Washington.—Plans of film production by the United States department of agriculture for the winter months to stimulate food production and conservation, provide for a weekly output of about 1,000 feet of negative.

According to an announcement just made by Don Carlos Ellis, in charge of motion picture activities for the department, an average of about one reel a week is to be released during the next six months for use in next spring's agricultural campaigns.

Many Subjects Treated.

These films will represent all parts of the country and will include the following subjects: Meeting farm labor problems in the Eastern, Middle and Western states; control of hog cholera, staged in Iowa; control of animal parasites, filmed in Texas and Washington; the story of wheat in the great wheat fields of the Pacific Northwest; exterminating the prairie dog in Arizona; harvesting California cantaloupes and potatoes; citrus fruit fumigation in southern California; big game on the Wichita game preserve in Oklahoma; the Red Cross pig club; national forests as the nation's playgrounds; forest-fire fighting; control and prevention of dust explosions caused by smut in wheat; drying fruits and vegetables in the home; logging timber for wooden ships and the construction of wooden ships; and the manufacture and use of cottage cheese—all of which already have been filmed.

Pictures on the handling of beef cattle, clean milk production, the "cootie," (taken in co-operation with the army surgeon general's office), cordwood production through improvement cuttings in farm woodlands, and prize dairy cattle throughout the United States, are now in process of filming. Pictures of hog raising, to be taken in Kansas and Iowa, of cattle on the national forests of the Pacific coast and the work of Uncle Sam's sheep clubs, are yet to be filmed.

One of the department's camera men is at present filming the story of harvesting and marketing wheat in the Pacific Northwest; another has just returned from Mississippi where he filmed the story of the Carroll county Red Cross special, which carried 3,000 pigs to the St. Louis market and secured for the Red Cross about $10,000 and for our meat supply 600,000 pounds of pork.

To Extend Distribution.

The department of agriculture intends to broaden greatly its plan of educational distribution, through the medium of the extension departments of the state agricultural colleges, to all educational agencies throughout the states. In all agricultural states are extension directors who have direction of farm agents in many counties and home demonstration agents in the cities. Besides, the agricultural college of each state has contact with all agricultural schools and institutions within the state.

"The department recognizes in motion pictures," said Mr. Ellis, "a most potent vehicle for getting before the farmer, housewife and the general public the important lessons in agriculture, home economics and food conservation, which must be learned and practiced if our country is to perform its gigantic task of feeding ourselves, our armies and the people of the nations of Europe."

FATHER FINDS HERO SON

Discovers Him in Bunch of Yanks Sent Home to Recover From Wounds.

Des Moines, Ia.—J. B. Burns saw a crowd around an ambulance at a railway station, and crossed the street to see the excitement. He saw a bunch of wounded Yanks being loaded into ambulances for Fort Des Moines.

In one of the ambulances he saw, big as life, his son "Jimmie."

"Hello dad," shouted the wounded Yank, happy despite the fact that he had left one leg "somewhere in France."

"Hello, son," shouted the excited father in return. Then he hurried home to tell the folks.

City vs. Farm Poultry Raising

Prepared by the U. S. Department of Agriculture

On the farm the poultry keeper can greatly reduce the work of caring for the fowls and at the same time give them the opportunity to pick the most of their living by distributing them on the land. In the city back yard the birds could not, under any circumstances, pick any considerable part of the feed they require. Practically everything must be supplied them, hence any negligence on the part of the keeper affects results more unfavorably than when the hens are under farm conditions.

Yet there is nothing difficult in the care of a small flock if each of the things necessary to do is done at the right time in the right way, and this system involves nothing too hard for a child, or beyond the ingenuity of an adult who cannot look after the fowls as closely as the child whose time is divided between home and school.

Hens of the medium-sized breeds—Plymouth Rocks, Wyandottes, Rhode Island Reds and Orpingtons—are best suited to back-yard conditions. Large hens kept in close confinement are likely to get too fat to lay well. Small, nervous hens are apt to develop such vices as egg-eating and feather eating. The bad tendencies mentioned do not prohibit the keeping of large and small breeds in small back yards, but make it necessary for the keeper to use extraordinary care to keep them in good condition and productive. White and light-colored varieties are not desirable for small back yards, because their plumage soils too easily.

As a rule it is most satisfactory to buy hens of a local poultry keeper or dealer in live poultry. Desirable small flocks are frequently offered by people who are obliged by change of work or of residence to sell their poultry. Dealers in live poultry everywhere sort out from their general receipts the hens that show good breeding and quality to sell to back-yard poultry keepers.

For the back-yard flock kept to produce eggs only it is not necessary to have hens of extra good standard quality. What breeders of standard poultry call choice utility hens are as good as any for egg production and cost but little more than ordinary mongrels. Hens of this grade in the medium-sized breeds are usually a little under standard weights, and have superficial faults—as unsoundness of color, or irregularity of markings or of the shape of the comb—which in no way affect their laying capacity but make them unfit for exhibition and undesirable for breeding purposes.

When buying hens in person, particular attention should be given to the general condition—whether the bird seems vigorous and lively—and to the appearance of the comb and the condition of the feet. Healthy hens have bright red combs and bright eyes. A slight paleness of the comb is simply an indication that the hen is not laying at the time; but a bird whose comb has either a yellowish or a bluish cast should be rejected, for these are symptoms of internal disorders. The skin and scales of legs and toes should be smooth, and the soles of the feet soft and free from corns.

HOW TO CLASSIFY A SOLDIER

Hat Cord Designates Branch of Service

A military man can immediately tell to what division a soldier belongs by glancing at the cord on his hat, but to the average citizen the color of the hat cord denotes little or nothing. It is an interesting feature to be familiar with, especially now when so many soldiers are seen all over the country, and any one who takes the trouble to learn the following list will be rewarded by being able to satisfy his own curiosity respecting any soldier he happens to see without having to ask questions:

A cord of light blue signifies that the wearer belongs to the infantry; red denotes artillery; yellow, cavalry; buff, quartermaster's corps; red and white, engineer's corps; orange and white, signal corps; red and black, ordnance; black and white, field clerk; maroon and white, medical corps; black and gold, officers; silver and black, adjutant general's clerk; green, instructor home guards, and green and white, home guards.

As the Earth's Human Race Advances It Also Develops

Man has been on the earth perhaps some twenty odd thousand years, and it is only the last 3,000 that we are much concerned with. To suppose that a modern Englishman must necessarily be at a higher stage of mental development than an ancient Greek is almost the same mistake as to argue that Browning must be a better poet than Wordsworth because he came later. If the soul, or the brain, of man is developing, it is not developing so fast or so steadily as all that.

Organization of the Red Star.

An organization to do for animals in the army what the Red Cross does for human beings was organized on the invitation or suggestion of the war department in June, 1916. It is called the Red Star, and its headquarters are at 287 State street, Albany, N. Y.

Printing of Fabrics by Peruvians Similar to the Method Still Being Used

The ancients of Peru, by a curious coincidence—for there could not possibly have been any intercourse with their contemporaries in India and Egypt—seem to have used much the same kind of processes in printing their designs upon the fabrics they manufactured. Both Herodotus and Pliny, among early historians, according to a United States commerce report, have told us about the cloths of vegetable fiber made by the ancients; but in all likelihood the fabrics of the Peruvians were of even a more remote date. In some respects the methods of today bear strong resemblance to the older practice. The chief difference consists in the patterns now being engraved upon copper rollers and several colors being printed at one time. Just as today the coloring matter of dyes is not affixed by merely printing it on the material, but is secured by means of a substance known as mordant, so did the Peruvians make use of a property which caused the dye to adhere and to withstand a test of thousands of years' wear and tear. Experts have declared that in the direction of technical and artistic value the designs in question have no equal. They must undoubtedly have been wholly original, and could have owed their inception to no outside influences.

Japanese Woman One of the Greatest Financiers

Mme. Yone Suzuki, the wealthiest woman in Japan made more than $100,000,000 in American money since the war began. Her war brides have been copper, rubber, and sugar ventures. In a financial operation now known as the Formosan sugar deal, a transaction involving sugar, camphor, real estate and many other things, she made $50,000,000 in one fell swoop. She is not a shareholder in a corporation. She is the corporation. Since her husband's death she has been solely responsible for her business. But she is just a modest little woman, who received in a cultured Japanese household the prescribed education of the old school—she was trained to arrange flowers, serve tea, rear children and please a husband.—World Outlook.

Breaking all Records

Right now—when milk prices are breaking all records—is the time to make new high records in milk production. It is surprising how effectively this can be accomplished by raising the health standard of your dairy cows.

The most prevalent cow ailments—Abortion, Retained Afterbirth, Bunches, Lost Appetite, Scours, etc.—arise from an impaired condition of the genital and digestive organs. Kow-Kure has remarkable medicinal properties that act directly on these organs, producing regular, healthy action.

Feed dealers and druggists sell Kow-Kure, in 60c. and $1.20 packages.

CALOMEL MAKES YOU SICK. UGH!

"Dodson's Liver Tone" better than calomel and can not salivate.

Calomel loses you a day! You know what calomel is. It's mercury; quicksilver. Calomel is dangerous. It crashes into sour bile like dynamite, cramping and sickening you. Calomel attacks the bones and should never be put into your system.

When you feel bilious, sluggish, constipated and all knocked out and believe you need a dose of dangerous calomel, just remember that your druggist sells for a few cents a large bottle of Dodson's Liver Tone, which is entirely vegetable and pleasant to take and is a perfect substitute for calomel. It is guaranteed to start your liver without stirring you up inside, and can not salivate.

Don't take calomel! It makes you sick the next day; it loses you a day's work. Dodson's Liver Tone straightens you right up and you feel great. Give it to the children because it is perfectly harmless and doesn't gripe.—Adv.

Sure! High Heels Cause Corns But Who Cares Now

You reckless men and women who are pestered with corns and who have at least once a week invited an awful death from lockjaw or blood poison are now told by a Cincinnati authority to use a drug called freezone, which the moment a few drops are applied to any corn or callus the soreness is relieved and soon the entire corn or callus, root and all, lifts off with the fingers.

Freezone dries the moment it is applied, and simply shrivels the corn or callus without inflaming or even irritating the surrounding tissue or skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any of the drug stores, but will positively rid one's feet of every hard or soft corn or hardened callus. If your druggist hasn't any freezone he can get it at any wholesale drug house for you —Adv.

HOW TO SHIP CANTALOUPES

Investigations Show That When They Are Unwrapped They Can Best Be Transported.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Cantaloupes not wrapped, loaded into refrigerator cars within three hours after picking, are more easily refrigerated in transit and, after unloading from cars, are much less subject to molding and rotting than cantaloupes which are wrapped when packed. These conclusions are based on investigations carried on by the United States department of agriculture during the shipping season of 1917 in the Imperial valley of California.

On as many different days during the season thirteen lots of melons were shipped from Brawley, Cal., to New York, in commercial carloads.

Standard Crates, Packed With Jumbo-Sized Contaloupes, 23 to 27 to the Crate.

The first lot was shipped on June 23 and the last lot on July 13. In each lot, half of the crates contained melons in paper wraps and half contained melons not wrapped. All the melons were picked by commercial pickers. The time between picking and packing varied from half an hour to four hours, averaging about two. All the crates in each lot were packed by the same commercial packer. The time between packing and car loading averaged about one hour. All the crates in each lot were stowed together in the same car so that each crate would receive as nearly as possible the average cooling of the load. The average length of time in transit was 11 days.

A few hours after car unloading every melon in each crate was inspected for firmness, color and decay. Immediately after the inspection each crate was repacked as nearly as possible the same as on arrival. Two days later, after being held under average city conditions, every melon was inspected for firmness, color and decay.

Just after unloading from cars the melons not wrapped were in a trifle better condition than the wrapped melons in regard to firmness, color, decay seriously affecting their food value, and mold seriously affecting their appearance.

Two days after unloading there was no great difference between the melons not wrapped and the melons wrapped in regard to firmness and color. But there were nearly five times as many badly decayed melons and nearly sixteen times as many badly molded melons in the wrapped lots as in the lots not wrapped.

The reason that wrapped melons rot and mold more after unloading from refrigerator cars than melons not wrapped is explained by the investigators as follows:

When, on summer days, cold melons are taken from refrigerator cars moisture from the atmosphere condenses on the surfaces of the melons. From melons not wrapped this moisture soon evaporates, but from wrapped melons the evaporation is hindered by the paper which, through its powers of absorption and obstruction of air circulation about the melons, tends to retain the condensed moisture. This retained moisture acts as a medium favorable for the growth of organisms which cause rotting and molding.

SET STRAWBERRIES IN FALL

Only Practicable Plan Is to Get as Good Growth as Is Possible Before Cold Weather.

The plan of setting strawberry plants early in the fall rather than to wait until spring appeals to some, but in practice it seldom works out well, as the plants do not get well enough rooted to pass the winter safely. The only fall planting plan for starting a strawberry bed that is practicable is to set the plants early and get as good a growth as possible before cold weather comes.

Are You Open-Minded?

The average American is open-minded.

American business is conducted by true Americans of vision, open-minded men who believe in their country and strive to meet their country's needs. The men in the packing industry are no exception to the rule.

The business of Swift & Company has grown as the nation has progressed. Its affairs have been conducted honorably, efficiently, and economically, reducing the margin between the cost of live stock and the selling price of dressed meat, until today the profit is only a fraction of a cent a pound—too small to have any noticeable effect on prices.

The packing industry is a big, vital industry—one of the most important in the country. Do you understand it?

Swift & Company presents facts in the advertisements that appear in this paper. They are addressed to every open-minded person in the country.

The booklet of preceding chapters in this story of the packing industry, will be mailed on request to

A sign on the hostell house informs Wednesday visitors that only friends or relatives of men on the station may enter there.

A fair visitor stepped up to the door and was stopped by a guard.

"Only friends or relatives of the men on the station allowed," he said.

"But I am the wife of one of the chiefs in the Administration building," said the visitor.

"Well," mused the guard, "I suppose that would come under friend or relative."—Great Lakes Bulletin.

Colds

Catarrh

A trinity of evils, closely allied, that afflict most people, and which follow one on the other, in the order named, until the last one is spread through the system, leading to many evils. But their course can be checked.

PERUNA CONQUERS

It is of great value when used promptly for a cold, usually checking it and overcoming it in a few days.

Ample evidence has proved that it is even of more value in overcoming chronic catarrh, dispelling the inflammatory conditions, enabling the diseased membranes to perform their natural functions, and toning up the entire system.

The experience of thousands is a safe guide to what it may be expected to do for you.

Y. W. C. A.

There will be a Field Conference of the Y. W. C. A. held at Los Angeles, January ten and eleven. Official delegates will be invited to attend throughout the Pacific Coast Field, which comprises Nevada, California, Arizona and the Hawaiian Islands. In addition to delegates from organized districts there will be in attendance many of those who assisted in the Educational Campaign last Fall in unorganized districts. Five National Secretaries from New York will be present as well as Field Secretaries.

The program will consist of outlines and discussion of questions of administration of National Field and Local work in its present and future program.

Mrs. Lawrence Draper is Chairman of the Pacific Coast Field Committee and will preside at the conference. Miss Mary I. Bentley is the Executive Secretary with Headquarters in the California Pacific Building, Cor. Sutter and Montgomery Streets, San Francisco, California.

Help Still Needed

A few ladies gathered at the Grammar school Tuesday and began the making of thirteen pinatores, the material for which the school furnished from the last year's funds.

There is an urgent need of these garments which constitute the essential wardrobe of both girls and boys in the foreign countries.

The W. C. T. U. sent in three more fine comforters for which there is also great call, for in many instances four of a family sleep under one covering.

There will be another meeting next Tuesday and a fuller attendance is urged. We cannot drop our work for some time yet.

Not Made in Germany

The blatant claim is often made, with brazen arrogance,
That German wisdom and research have made the world advance;
But when we start to itemize the things of greatest worth,
That benefit and comfort bring to people of the earth,
We do not find them emanating from Teutonic brains,
Although they quickly utilize whate'er another gains.
The telegraph, the telephone, the engine run by steam;
Acetylene and kerosene, electric lights that gleam;
The ocean cable and the wireless, and the phonograph;
The motion picture, and in fact the common phorograph—
All these would still be hidden from the races of mankind,
If their disclosure had depended on the German mind.
The telescope, the microscope, the antiseptic gauze;
The anesthetic for relief of pain from any cause;
The principle of vaccination to prevent disease;
The decimal and metric system, which we use with ease—
All these were given to the world by nations now at war
Against Teutonic doctrines, which we heartily abhor.
Our aniline for dyeing and our rubber vulcanized;
Our automobiles and pianos, both so highly prized;
Electric cars and air brakes, and the soft pneumatic tire;
The plate glass in our windows and our fences of barbed wire;
All these were ne'er discovered in the land of the braggard Hun;
Although they try to fool us as to what they've really done,
Machines for reaping harvest and machines for threshing grain;
The cotton gin, the submarine, the bird-like aeroplane;
Machines for sewing clothing and machines to count our cash,
Machines to write our letters, all so neatly in a flash—
These also might have never come to bless the human race,
If other folks had waited for the Huns to set the pace.
E'en implements of warfare are not born of Prussian hands,
But they employ inventions that have come from other lands;
Percussion caps, torpedoes, smokeless powder, dynamite,
And nitroglycerin or shrapnel, all so deadly in a tight;
The rifle or revolver, or the quick breech-loading gun,
While widely used were none of them invented by the Hun.
The Germans are mechanic and are skillful in that line;
They copy someone else's work, and often do it fine—
But when it comes to doing things that never had been done,
They simply are not in it and no laurels have they won;
They talk of German "kultur" and they boast and strut about,
But yet their big achievements are their pretzels, beer and kraut.

—Le Roy Hafon Kelsey, in Implement Record.

A Debt to Heroes

The Fifth Liberty Loan will be known as the Victory Loan.

Victory is not merely a matter of jubilation, accepting surrender of a beaten foe and dropping the gun to take up the plow share in the furrow where it stood when the call to arms came.

The Victory Loan is one of the many great obligations that come to the victors. President Woodrow Wilson and the members of the American peace delegation are now in France looking after the world obligations. Our part now is to prepare to pay in small measure the debt we owe our khaki and blue clad champions.

A large part of the money to be raised in the Victory Loan campaign next April will be used for the rehabilitation of our wounded men. The government will do its utmost to restore every wounded American soldier and sailor to health and self supporting activity.

When the wounded man has been given complete medical and surgical treatment he will be considered by the Federal Board for Vocational Education. If his disability prevent return to work he left at the call of the government a wide choice of occupation is open to him. If the injured man needs an artificial limb or appliance of any sort the government will provide it. Until his special treatment and training ends he will receive regular compensation and the family will recieve the allotment.

The war risk insurance will be paid until the end of the vocational training if the course is elected without necessity, but in this case the allotment will not be paid the family.

Instead of finding dependent cripples and beggars made so by an unappreciative country, they will be highly trained heroes whose sacrifices will not be tarnished by lack of gratitude.

If you are worth victory prepare now to buy Victory Bonds.

A Letter From France

American E. F. France, Nov. 13, 1918.
Received Dec, 26.

Dear Folks: - The day after writing my last letter to you, which was some thing over two weeks ago we left the rest camp where we had been stationed for a few days for another little go at the front. We have practically been on the road every day since, so haven't had any chance to write. That is also the reason why we have not recieved any mail. I dont know whether they are getting any mail through now or not but I am going to take a chance.

It was certainly good news to learn that Germany had accepted the Armistice, and I sure hope it wont take long to have the final signing of peace. we certainly have a great deal to be thankful for. Now that the war is practically over we can look forward to the time when we will again be on the boat and homeward bound.

It also means there will be no more going under shell fire, as they sure had us ducking a great many times.

One of our worst jobs used to be hauling barbed wire, pickets, shovels, and the like, up close to the trenches, over roads and through towns that the Germans had direct observation on.

Lots of times we would be rather close and the Germans would throw up a bright flare from their side, illuminating the country for quite a little ways and if we happened to be on a high piece of ground, we used to think they were looking right at us. Some of these trips were quite interesting, also a little exciting.

I hope it wont be a great while before I am able to tell you a little more about them personally.

I suppose you dont hear a great deal about the First Division in California as it consists mostly of Eastern men.

When I came into the division it contained mostly regular army men.

As a division it certainly has made a great record as it has been in the lines off and on ever since last January.

The winter is not very far away now as it is becoming quite cold, some mornings there being very heavy frost on the ground.

Expect to move again shortly so in case you dont hear from me soon it will be because we are still on the road. Well it is time to take care of the mules so I will have to close.

Millard W. Berry,
First Engineers Train.

Capt. Bealey Relates Thrilling Adventures

The Country Woman's Club does not often indulge in social occasions so they are doubly appreciated when they do occur, and the Monday afternoon meeting at the home of Mrs. Ralph Hyde was a very enjoyable one.

The Committees, Mesdames R. H. Hyde, R. G. Archibald, L. B. Sprecher, and E. Barron had arranged a delightful program which was thoroly enjoyed by all present.

After a short business session closing with the reading of the aims of the society, and a poem, "Message for The New Year", by the President, Mrs. Ellen R. Smith, the committee took charge of the program.

Miss Nell Donlon of San Jose gave two readings, "Between Two Loves" and "Foreigners' Views of the Statue of Liberty." Miss Donlon was most enthusiastically received and later in the day kindly consented to give another number, in Italian dialect, at which she is very clever.

Miss Cecille Ellison, who needs no eulogy to Campbell readers, with Mrs. Emily P. Gard at the the piano, played very pleasingly, Fritz Kreisler's, "Folk Song."

Capt. W. F. de V. Bealey was then introduced and told of some of his experiences as a "flyer" with the British Air Squadron in France. Capt. Bealey is an American, who was in Germany when the war began, and in a few days had left the country and was enlisted in the English army. He has seen active service with the infantry, artillery, tanks, cavalry and air forces.

He dwelt chiefly upon the latter feature of his varied experiences, from the time of his application to his last trip over the German lines when his machine was put out of control and landed with such speed in a shell hole that he was badly injured and incapacitated for further service, altho not maimed. The Captain is a young man, decided humorous in spirit and gifted in detailing scenes and events graphically and picturesquely, so that his hearers could almost see and sense his sights and sensations. He very graciously acceded to the requests of the ladies and also sang for them.

Mr. Barron, another popular Campbell entertainer, sang, "Here Is My Heart," and Mrs. Hyde, altho not scheduled on the program, responded to requests and sang a charming Irish Melody, "Bendemir's Stream. Mrs. G. S. Robson accompanying all of the vocalists.

Since the war ban on refreshments has been removed, the Committee served delicious cake, coffee, salted almonds and candy, closing an afternoon that will remain as a bright spot in this season of "flu" depression.

THE COMBINED Red Cross membership and Armenian-Syrian relief drive is being pushed under difficult circumstances, but none the less vigorously and successfully. The influenza, which caused the delay of the Red Cross Christmas Roll Call, now becomes an occasion for some to plead that with all our troubles at home, and since the war is over, we ought scarcely to be expected to pour out our money for the Red Cross. But such a plea is selfish and short-sighted. Our troubles are scarcely worth mention in comparison with those which are being endured, and have long been endured, by millions in the near east. The Red Cross is doing its work not only abroad, but in our own land. The "flu" has no more formidable foe than the Red Cross.

WHY NOT recognize the fact that the "flu" should be classed with small pox, scarlet fever and similar contagious diseases, and ENFORCE A STRICT QUARANTINE of individuals and homes afflicted? This remark is not intended merely for health authorities, but for everybody. If you have the "flu", or suspect that you have it, STAY AT HOME AND CALL THE DOCTOR.

Local and Personal

Now is the time to buy a sack of potatoes They'll be higher soon.

Mr. Walter A Merrill and family left Thursday evening for their home in St. Paul Minnesota. They expect to stop at Portland, Seattle, Washington, and Butte, Montana. His sister Mrs. Sallie Craig accompanied them as far as Butte, where they separate, Mrs. Craig going to her home at Great Falls.

A Pleasant Occasion

The home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Morton was the scene of a delightful gathering Wednesday Eve., when guests assembled to enjoy an evening of music and merry-making.

Those present were, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Clark and Dr. and Mrs. R. B. Newbre of Los Gatos, the Reverend and Mrs. John Collins of Santa Clara, and Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Morton.

A very interesting talk on Aviation was given by Mrs. R. B. Newbre, who is the only woman of California possessing an Aviatrix, a License. She pilots her own machine, a Curtis, flying under her maiden name, Helen Hodge.

Light refreshments were served during the evening.

Every Woman of the Mobilized Army shonld be there, as it will help them so much in the coming Red Cross drive.

High School Notes

Unlike most of the public schools, C. U. H. S. is ready for business. In spite of the two weeks' vacation that elapsed during light of the uninvited "Flu," the students' work progressed by a correspondence course.

Appreciating the fact that this course was necessary; students entered into it with good will and at the end of the two weeks they had completed the required amount of work and thus accomplished successfully a great deal which might have otherwise been lost.

Every one is cordially invited to the high school auditorium January 17th at 7:30 o'clock to listen to an interesting debate. The question, being one of current importance, is: Resolved that the President's cabinet should have a seat in both houses of Congress and a voice in their precedings.

"Everybody come and give us a root!" Come and hear the argument; come and judge for yourself which team deserves the decision! The efficient debaters who will appear on the affirmative side at Campbell to debate Los Gatos are Doris Leviston and Joyce Robson; those who will go to Redwood City to uphold the negative side are Harold Couk and Isbelle Collins.

America went into the war for a humanitarian ideal. Its great post-war task is no less humanitarian—to supply food to three hundred million people the world over. Keep on preventing food wastes. Twenty million tons must go abroad in 1919.

The sacrifice of the American home and the elforts of the American farmer have removed fear of famine from the minds of our Allies

Death of Jas. R. Smith

Another home in Campbell was bereft of the husband and father, when James R Smith died last Friday after suffering for several years from tuberculosis.

Mr. Smith and family came to Campbell last spring, purchasing the southern of the two H. W. Higbie houses, on Johnson avenue, facing Campbell avenue. Mr. Smith had been at a sanitarium for some time but was brot home the day before his death. The body was taken to their former home in Missouri, accompanied by his son, Roswell.

The immediate members of the family are the widow, Roswell, a small daughter, Mary Lucille, and a baby about a year old, to all of whom is extended sincere sympathy in their bereavement.

It is the task of a mobile hospital to advance to the front lines with the troops to give first aid treatment to the wounded. The mobile hospital unit from base hospital No. 20, University of Pennsylvania, were commended by General Pershing for the courage they displayed under shell fire. Two Red Cross nurses were included in this special distinction for their bravery and devotion to duty.
